"Look Down"

Look down because this time you're not looking like yourself

I notice everytime you catch yourself alive

Hide here and know that I'm not going anywhere

But I hear the seconds of this hour counting down

You're guard will fall

And I will know it all

Take the moments that we've spent

And pretend they never went

And when things aren't going well

We'll forget time and find ourselves

Leave you're troubles in lament

And sing your songs of no regret

When things aren't going well

We'll forget time and find ourselves

Look now our lives are moving faster than our eyes

Stray light illuminating vagueness in disguise

Out here I get the feeling autum will arive

And I fear the seconds of this hour counting down

Our cards will fall

And we will know it all

Breathe in, scream out

I want in, I think I'll stay out
