That's it, let's move to New York City
And we won't even say goodbye
We'll find a place where we can start a fight
And feel good to be alive

An so we'll drive across the country
On this endless holiday
You take the shortcut and I'll watch life pass
I can't remember who drove last

And it runs, it runs
Why don't you think they'd understand?
It runs, it runs
Why don't you think for the next trick

It's gonna be the last mistake you make
And it's going to devastate all them

We're on our way
We're on our way
on our
We're on our way
We're on our way
on our

We're on our way to run more errands
Traveler's without a plan
And I've been awake for way too long
I can't remember who I am

And it runs, it runs
Why don't you think they'd understand?
And it runs, it runs
Why don't you think for the next trick?

It's gonna be your legacy, ah yeah
And it's going to devastate all them
