Put yourself together, figure out what's going on
If you don't stop, the music will stop before too long

But isn't it always the same old thing,
The violence of the fights, the friends you bring,
Basically you're just out to ruin our scene

It's the path of least resistance, I presume
Why is it that I don't incite the same from you?

Stay on the path you've chosen, you pussy
What does it take for you to know the path you've
chosen's not for me?
We don't agree

Take your fights somewhere else, we don't want them here
We've got a scene that's growing strong, don't interfere

'Cause you're the minds of all the kings,
You and all this city's pigs shutting places down,
Why can't you see?

It's the path of least resistance, I presume
I presume
Why is it that I don't incite the same from you?

Down the path you've chosen, you proceed
What does it take for you to know the path you've
chosen's not for me?

You and I determine what in our future lies ahead
And we will find it in the end, or so it's said

But whatever it is that you may do
Hear me when I say to you
Fighting is a joke and so are you

It's the path of least resistance, I presume
Why is it that I don't incite the same from you?

Down the path you've chosen, you proceed
What does it take for you to know the path you've
chosen's not for me?

That's right!
