Sing a song of all that love can do
And I'll sing along
Sing it my whole life long
Tell a tale of all it's done to you
And that won't make you strong when all the hope is gone

When it all goes wrong
It's such a different song
That you sing to yourself

Barely set the sunshine just for you
The rain never came, even on winter days
Now he says the dream was never true
He won't be the name, says he'll never be the same

When it all goes wrong
It's such a different song
That you sing to yourself

When it all goes wrong
It's such a different song
That you sing to yourself
