You're wonderful
You're good at everything you do
Everyone is equal
But not as equal as you

You're the best
You're the best
And every town's got one
Like you

Just take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain of this life
You can let down your guard tonight

Paranoid perfectionistic people
They can only put their very, very best foot forward
And as a result they're rather easy to detect They'll be the only ones hopping down the streets of
New York

And every town's got one
Like you

Just take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain

If you're walking on the line
You'll never know what's on either side
You might be wrong or might be right
You can't pass this love, you gotta give it a try

Just take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain of this
And you can let down your guard

Just take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things

And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain

If you're walking on the line

Might be wrong or might be right

You can't pass this love, you gotta give it a try
