Sit alone and scream away the days as the world
breaks me
And find my time well spent inside this straight jacket.
Now finally, i have my reason to heal.

If you want this then say it.
You wanted to be home, well i'm home.

Erase this place that we called our own,
This escape has grown more than a dream.
It's you and me now.

All our wounds fade in the rear view mirror.
Scars soon dissappear as the mileage clears our minds.
These years of silence break with the clouds tonight.

If you want this then say it.
You wanted to be home, well i'm home.

You wanted to be alone, you wanted to take me home.
You never could make your mind up
