

Lari White

"Itty Bitty Little Single Solitary Piece O'..."

Visit "Itty Bitty Little Single Solitary Piece O'..." on MotoLyrics.com

(lari white/john rotch)

I know what it is you're tryin
When you're tryin to be so cool
Everywhere you go you're a romeo
With a smile and a line so smooth

But the trail of hearts lying in your wake
It looks like a six lane interstate
And there's a big, bright, red light telling me tonight
Not to slow down, get my heart out of sight

Chorus:

So you wont get the taste of this, not even a kiss
The fact your middle name is heartache aint no coincidence
You made a livin out of lovin and leavin em to fall apart
So now you better understand you'll never lay a hand on one
Itty bitty little single solitary piece o my heart

I know what it is you're doin
With all that cooin and a woin
But you can't fool me, I got a degree
I learned a lot from hard knock schoolin
Well, I used to jump in wholehearted
Every time a new love started
But it was just a chase, then replaced heart, thrown in my face
Not any more, my love is to good to waste

(repeat chorus)

I said now you better understand, you'll never lay a hand on one
Itty bitty little single solitary piece o my heart

Visit Lari White page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.