[Verse 1:]

Forget the world, all actions aside.
We've never been the ones to care,
It isn't real if you're not there.
So select what you hear, and turn a blind eye.
Convince yourself that all is fine,
Ignoring all the telltale signs.

And now there's something in the air,
It hasn't been there from the start.
Consequence, it all makes sense now we all did our part.
But you don't know, you don't know what's at loss.

[Chorus:]

So let it go now, just let it slide now,
And we are the ones to blame.
Bound, it's gonna come around,
It's gonna take us down,
And we are the ones to Blame.

[Verse 2:]

Consume until we purge, our human mentality.
We could do so much better with our time,
We have the tools but lack the drive.
And with self-interest will come debris,
But I'm more concerned about what we leave
For our future generations to see.

But now there's something in the air,
That hasn't been there from the start.
The effort is joint, and now the breaking point
Is closer than we thought.
But you don't know, you don't know what's at loss.

[Bridge:]

Our actions of today, will not just fade away.
Expend so carelessly, but keep the effect at bay.
Cause everything is fine, when profits are on the rise.
Look out for yourself now, and pass on the demise.
