[Verse 1:]

It looks as though it's gone to my head again,
The best of me is no longer seen.
And now I find myself in the red again,
A simple mind is all I need.

I can't see through your eyes,
But you've shown me all that's real.
That point of view's not far away.
(Will there come a day?)

This world desensitizes,
You've taught me how to feel.
With you I know I'll (we'll) be OK.

We'll find a way.

[Verse 2:]

Our good intentions are lost with innocence,
The daily grind can drain the heart.
So commonly we all lose our common sense,
And I feel the worst when we're apart.
