So lets gather all this at hand
Yeah let's get it straight for once this time
The story goes: you took a personal stand
A thin line I ignored like I was blind

Cause when you left cold shoulder and all
The awkwardness had consumed me all that day
Thanks for not caring enough
Another month that I threw time away

We threw time away
And I knew that to me this would never get old
Threw time away, we threw time away
And I knew that to me this would never get old

It was one night, no power at all
Sat watching through the picturesque window frame
The conversations spawned by alcohol
I never forgot the look left on your face

What would the next day hold?
We traded thoughts in a drunken sort of way
The wind blew like the middle of fall
But our minds threw exhaustion and time away

We threw time away
And I knew that to me you would never get old
Threw time away, we threw time away
And I knew that to me you would never get old

Now you're coming around and looking at me
So tell me what you want us to be
