All these things we justify them and we redraw the lines
Will it ever end?
Compromise the days behind us, let the lessons go
Will it ever end?
Take it away, take everything, take all the things, that got us here
(forget the cost, forget the loss, forget yourself)
They've been replaced
Don't condescend, that will offend, and in the end
What's there to say (another day, that slips away...
You know you let it get away)
It's all gone
All these things (we let them slide)
Hold soft again, let others in, ease up
And then there is no room, for where we began
We separate, and seal the fate, of those to come We'll ask how (we're gonna find ourselves alone...we've lost it all)
We got this lost
Let it slide, and don't deny
All these things we compromise
(All these things we let them slide...compromise)
