And I'll concede, I was the first
To take this news and doubt my everything
Wonderin' how we would go, go on from here?
When everything I thought I needed most was taken from me

And you know I want to be strong
But then it's hard to see
How you're controlling everything?
How I need you now

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
That you always had in mind

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
You know, you always had in mind

Today was long as it went on I felt the need
To want to sleep away, hoping that tomorrow Brings relief on pain or put me one day closer to the end
So I can see the plan

And now I want to know
How this change will make me grow
Towards the things you'll need me for
How I need you now

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
That you always had in mind

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
You know, you always had in mind

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
That you always had in mind

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
That you always had in mind

This song is not the end
This change can't take away the things
You know, you always had in mind
