Tonight I've been in for a shock
To find you where I'd never look
It seems we've run around in paralleling circles
And now I'm here this time again, full of fear- do I go in?
Or should I keep this as a perfect story notion?

I've kept you out of my mind-
I've been safer thinking of all the other boys I know
And how my heart won't break if I decide to let it go
But I would love to love you- oh how I would love to love you

When I met you then I knew what this craziness could do-
All my fences just unraveling within me
And all the pain that you had seen took you so far out of reach
My open arms just couldn't take the hurt away

And what would you do if you knew I'm standing right outside?
Debating with myself- should our circles collide?
When in a world without these scars
I would love to love you- oh how I would love to love you
Oh how I would love to love you

I'm not an advocate of self inflicted pain
Maybe it's better just to stay away

I have to choose what would be best I've only got one in me left
I understand now what I need- you're not right for me
But what if you would prove me wrong or what if you've already gone
And what if I get stuck alone in this again?

I've no reason to be feeling this irrational
But once I see you- well I know it'll be all over and I'll come undone while you might pass this by again

But I'd love to love you- oh how I would love to love you
Oh how I would love to love you
I'd love to love you
