

Laura Nyro "Triple Goddess Twilight"

Visit "Triple Goddess Twilight" on MotoLyrics.com

I was a sweet baby in my mother's arms, we were strolling through the park.
Picnic, peace walk, progress.
Just a baby in her arms, my politics are based on her charms.

Triple Goddess Twilight, slow down. Feel the land, violet everywhere, I'll meet you there.
Mother, you died young and left me. Your twilight colors, rose, ah, burgundy, coral mist.
What are the shades of loneliness?

Triple Goddess Twilight, late sky violet and pink.
All roads lead to Venus. I'll meet you there in your dream of progress.

My grandfather painted houses on a ladder in the sky.
He was working class, urbane, streetwise.

Said, "We can change the world, girl, love
will inspire."
Told me this through whiskey and revolutionary fire.

Triple Goddess Twilight, last trace of ruby and flame.
First star leads to Venus.

He left a war to talk in peace now. Sad life was for our dream, our dream of progress.

Visit Laura Nyro page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.