I'm torn again between my pride, my old friend
And who you've called me to be
I've sworn again to lay it down, to bring an end
To this life lived for me

For I've one life to lose, one chance to find
A newer, better me, the old one left behind
For there's one Lord who leads though steep the cost
I have learned when I am lost, it's there that I am found

I am found as your daughter, as your child
As one purchased by Your blood
And though there's nothing I can add to such a perfect sacrifice
How can I offer you less than all my life?

For I've one life to lose, one chance to find
A newer, better me, the old one left behind
For there's one Lord who leads how steep the cost
I have learned when I am lost, it's there that I am found
It's there that I am found

For I've one life to lose, one chance to find
A newer, better me, the old one left behind
For there's one Lord who leads how steep the cost
I have learned when I am lost
I have learned when I am lost, it's there that I am found
It's there that I am found
