If you want to be alone here with me
You must understand my weakness
It's the way that he left me
And bereft me of my love without a warning
Without mourning, almost yawning

No one wants forever anymore
Cause no one dares to try
No one wants endeavour like before

If you want to see the world that's in me
You should know I'll always need him
It's the way that I met him
There's no way that I could possibly forget him
Like he got me, and forgot me

No one wants forever anymore
And no one wants to try
No one wants endeavour like before

No one wants forever anymore
And no one wants to be there like I know I might have been
No one wants endeavour like before
