

Lawrence Tracy "Used To The Pain"

Visit "Used To The Pain" on MotoLyrics.com

6 a.m alarm goes off
I reach where you no longer lie but don't feel quite as lost
Everyday, I drive my truck a little farther into work before your memory catches up.
The radio on, I'm not afraid
I can listen to most any song the DJ wants to play
Slow but sure, I'm coming around
No I'm not looking back I'm moving on now
But I won't go so far as to say that I'm fine too much of what I felt for you remains.
I'd like to believe in the healing hands of time but the truth is I really can't say if I'm getting better or just used to the pain.
End of the day head back home have a bite to eat then sit down in the living room alone.
Easy chair, watch tv.

Half way through the news I'm soundly sleeping but I won't go so far to say that I'm fine too much of what I felt for you remains.

I'd like to believe in the healing hands of time but the truth is
I really can't say if I'm getting better or just used to the pain.
No I won't go so far as to say that I'm fine too much of what I felt for you remains.
I'd like to believe in the healing hands of time but the truth is
I really can't say if I'm getting better or just used to the pain.
If I'm getting better or just used to the pain.

Visit Lawrence Tracy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.