Let me take another look around, why we're here and why we're friends cause, we're here to make a difference and there is nothing left to show you of why we need not throw away, something as beautiful as you. there's so much more of life to see, than to put that gun up against your skull. so maybe it's been, a little hard. just don't play this game you'll get through it and realize that there's so much more of the world to see, than to bleed on me with stupid beliefs you'll never change. i don't want to miss you. i want to believe in you.
