White on white is all I see in this cold room
Staring at the plastic tubes connected to you
I feel like the rain outside; I'm falling down
My whole world is standing still without you smiling

Don't you dare die on me
Who am I without you
Don't you dare die on me
Who are we divided

I try to recall the past we shared so far
Both our lives were turned around the day we met
Something wants to stop us now, but we are strong We've both seen the face of death; we know his weakness

They tell me to talk to you, but I don't know
If I open up my mouth, I might start screaming
All I can is hold your hand and wait for you
I wish I could take your place and all your pain

Don't you dare die on me
Who am I without you
Don't you dare die on me
Who are we divided

All the doctors try to tell me what is wrong
There is not a spot on you they haven't checked
I know that they try to help, but I am scared
It's a fucking guessing game; they don't know shit

Don't you dare die on me
Who am I without you
Don't you dare die on me
Who are we divided

I know that you fight this thing with all your strength
I wish I could be with you and fight beside you
Then I know that if we fail and lose the war
We will know we kicked some ass and stood united

Sleep

Don't you dare die on me
Who am I without you
Don't you dare die on me
Who are we divided

I just ask you to be brave and fight for us
We are one, so don't let go without a battle
You know I will understand if you decide
That this war is too much for your soul to handle
