Feel the underground breeze as the trains go by Pushing through the crowd to see the sky around you
I blink as the green light turns to red
Everybody on the street trying to get ahead, surrounded

And when I lose myself in this raging sea
You're a beacon of light, you're the air I breathe

Oh long night
I want you all to myself from now till the morning lights
Maybe we could make a great escape
Run away like thieves and lock the world away
Somewhere no one will ever find us on this long night
Long night

Got a long ride home to think about things
And the song that the man on the radio sings
Is so true, reminds me of you

The way that you know just who I am
When I don't say I word you still understand
It gets through, yeah who knew

Oh, it's days like these when I crave you the most Shivers down my spine when you're holding me close

Oh long night
I want you all to myself from now till the morning lights
Maybe we could make a great escape
Run away like thieves and lock the world away
Somewhere no one will ever find us on this long night
Long night

Oh long night
I want you all to myself from now till the morning lights
Maybe we could make a great escape
Run away like thieves and lock the world away
Somewhere no one will ever find us on this long night
Long night
