I've been hurrying, I've been worrying
I've running against the wind
I've been betting my soul on a long shot roll
That a good man never wins
I've been tossing and I've been turning
I've been burning it at both ends
I've been seeing myself in the rearview
And I don't like where I've been

So I'm taking my time
Holding and hoping and driving and dreaming
And loving every minute of it
Just enjoying the ride
Slowly and soulfully feeling the wheels unwind
Finding my way back, home

I've tooling along the two lane
I got off of the interstate
I've been going too fast, I got off on the gas
I've been learning the charm of the brake
I've been rolling down all the windows
And letting the world rush in
The smell of the grass and the fields that I pass
And the sun dance on my skin

So I'm taking my time
Holding and hoping and driving and dreaming
And loving every minute of it
Just enjoying the ride
Slowly and soulfully feeling the wheels unwind
Finding my way back

(instrumental break)

I'm taking my time
Holding and hoping and driving and dreaming
And loving every minute of it
I'm taking my time
Holding and hoping and driving and dreaming
And loving every minute of it
Just enjoying the ride

Slowly and soulfully feeling the wheels unwind
Slowly and soulfully feeling the wheels unwind
Finding my way back, home
I'm finding my way back, home
