I wake up in the morning and I open my eyes and I look out the window and up to the skies and I wonder, yes I wonder is this all there is

I stroll in the bathroom, take a look in the mirror
My head is a vacuum and nothing is clearer
And I wonder, how did my life get to this

I stumble downstairs and I stand in the hall and I stare at the letters across the floor and no one has even remembered

I grab any bottle and I pour me a glass
And I swore on the gospel but that didn't last Straight to the brain it numbs the pain and the past

Look up at the picture hanging on the wall
Me and you when we had it all
Funny oh that money I can recall

Then one day you just up and gone
Round about the time it all went wrong
Leaving me all alone

He was a funny man
He could make you laugh, make you cry
My, my oh my,
He would roam from town to town
And the folks would come from miles around
Killer routines, the songs he sings
The funniest man you've ever seen

Well If I could go round again
Feel the love from the crowd, again
I bet you nine times out, out of ten
Well I could do it again
Oh, I could do it again

From the kitchen chair I can look out and see
The empty swing and our favourite tree
I was never around when you fell down and grazed your knee

Well I'm sorry son

Why can't I be there to see you ride your bike
To pick you up and to hold you tight
Kiss it better and tell you it's gonna be all right

I just didn't see it slip away
My life my soul gave it all away
Just to hear them say

He was a funny man
He could make you laugh, make you cry
My, my oh my,
He would roam from town to town
And the folks would come from miles around
Killer routines, the songs he sings
The funniest man you've ever seen

Well If I could go round again
Feel the love from the crowd, again
I bet you nine times out, out of ten
Well I could do it again
Oh, I could do it again

Customary bow before I go
Curtain falls, on my final show
The lights go down all around just a glow

There it is all said and done
Something in there for everyone
Watch out hallelujah, here I come
Now they would stand, and they would cheer
I can see it now, as if it were all, right, here

He was a funny man
He could make you laugh, make you cry
My, my oh my,
He would roam from town to town
And the folks would come from miles around
Killer routines, the songs he sings
The funniest man you've ever seen

Well If I could go round again
Feel the love from the crowd, again
I bet you nine times out, out of ten
Well I could do it again
Oh, I could do it again

If I could go round again
Feel the love from the crowd, again
I bet you nine times out, out of ten

Well I could do it again
Oh, you know I could do it again

If I could go round again
Feel the love from the crowd, again
I bet you nine times out, out of ten
Well I could do it again
Oh, you know could do it again
And let the angels, sing!
