Looking out the window
I can see the tops of buildings
So much taller than you'll ever see back home
Driving through a driving rain
The city lights all look the same
And all it means is one more night alone

It's not so bad in summer
But December makes me wonder
How a country boy could feel more out of place
Traffic lights and foreign cars
Plastic smiles in crowded bars
I'd trade it all for one familiar place

Chorus:
So when the rain turns to snow
And all the city shops are filled with toys and mistletoe
That's when I'll be on my way
When the rain turns to snow
I'll be home on Christmas day.

Staring at the ceiling
In this room I get to feeling
That there's nothing in this town that's worth my time
Every night I'm here I dream
Of country roads and mountain steams
But most of all the ones I left behind

Chorus:
