

Lee Kernaghan

"Love In The Time Of Drought"

Visit "Love In The Time Of Drought" on MotoLyrics.com

It was dusty in December, the drought was setting in Could see the heat hays rising off corugated tin
And nothing stood out in the holding yard
She came right out of nowhere like a summer rain Could feel wrap around me the breath upon my skin
She touched me deep down inside my heart
It was thunder it was lightning the sky opened up and love tumbled down
It was fearless, it was reckless, it was real, it's raining
on dust
It was love in the time of drought

We watched the neon sunset I held her body close
The western stars exploded our love and overflowed
Then we laid there lost in each other's arms
It was thunder, it was lightning the sky opened up and
love tumbled down
It was fearless, it was reckless, it was real, it's raining
on dust
It was love in the time of drought

Tumbling over you, tumbling over me

It was thunder, it was lightning, the sky opened up and
love tumbled down
It was fearless, it was reckless, it was real, it's raining
on dust
It was love in the time of drought

Visit Lee Kernaghan page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.