Come, people of God
We are here for the love of truth
Winter may conquer us, but we stand still
Until the spring comes to this land

Come, children of God
We believe in the love of truth
Darkness may rule of night but we stand tall
Until the sunrise is high

Silence may be our voices within our hearts
But we know God is on our side

This is the land God promised for us
So we must be the light of this world

We know this is our destiny
Children of god follow our star
Silence may be our voices within our hearts
But we know God is on our side
This is the land God promised for us
So we must be the light of this world
