"When Gargolyes Fly"

the gargoyles slumber through time with patience they wait for the sign these demons of obscurity shall fly once again - soon they'll be free they shall come back from shadows and stones they shall relive as in the tales from the old and remain for thousands of years after the earth has crumbled in tears look above there you see the sign on the purple colored sky reality change and granite comes alive for two thousand years

they have slept with this curse
and now is the time
when the gargoyles fly

in the center of nowhere in time they arise with furious fiery eyes they eagerly search what combines the clandestine doors to the other side they are free the battalions of fiends like a thousand million beams they strike through the void like a universal scream a meteoric rain is falling down to earth this is the time

they have slept with this curse
