I think I'll take the long road home tonight
I'm back I bruised I'm a broken tonight
Off the deep end full throttle again
And one last time these yellow lines get the best of me

I wish you could sleep... float away and release just like
I can
And I wish I could take... a pill to stay awake until you land
And I wish I could be there when your life begins...
To shine

There's no stars tonight in my midnight sky
And in my dream you're there beside me

Falling backwards it's full speed ahead
And one last time these empty flights get the best of me

I wish you could sleep... float away and release just like
I can
And I wish I could take... a pill to stay awake until you
land
And I wish I could be there when your life begins
And I wish I could still see your halo and wings just like I used to
But more than anything I wish you could see mine too
