you pretend not to notice it standing there next to you you act so hard don't you really wish it could be home under you don't even try to make sense of it now your better off when your by yourself look in the eye and a motion made but you wind up alone again so much to tell but you save face and you never say anything

nothing you can say to yourself your better off now think your better than the rest of them only so much you can stand so much better than the rest of them

your better off by yourself
you never quit because your selfish
