Everything I've ever known has given up on me
The bonds you make and the dreams you break
Seem to fade away just like everything else
Just when you think you know the ones that you love

You lie awake and think how can you change?
How can you change for them? How can you change?

Everyone I've ever loved has turned their back on me
When did this all come undone? I can't control myself
I never thought I'd see the ones so close to me
Show me who they want to be

You lie awake and think how can you change?
How can you change for them? You lie awake and think

You aren't who you claim to be

There was a time in my life I didn't know myself
I never thought I'd see the ones so close to me
Show me who they want to be

You lie awake and think how can you change for them?
How can you change?
