the wind hits
my eyes close and out comes youth sound sounded like your voice ringing through my ears you said its time to go, i only let it show you said this feeling in my gut, the longest week of my life seems easier staring at the same sky everytime we say goodnight Im counting down the days, and I can't count the ways come friday maybe i'll get out of bed and i'll write letters so that my heart can make me feel better i'll write this song for you and i never thought this week would ever end since morning can't wait to see your smile again my heart is aching now the pedal's to the floor my mind is racing to recall memories of early morn my eyes fell into yours i lay there face up on the floor i hold my breath you sit back the best night of my life seems easier staring at the stars unsink your eyes im counting down the days but i can't count the ways that the rings cuz my fingers shut my eyes And i'll write letters so my heart can make me feel better
I'll write this song for you and I never thought this week would end
Since morning can't wait to see your smile again I'll write letters so that my heart can make me feel better
I'll write this song for you I never thought this week would ever end
life is easier when we aren't miles apart sprink broke my heart
