All alone, hear a voice bouncing echoes in my head
First I thought it was you, but now I know it's my regret Unwrapping memories unneeded, unwantingly I pause
On a face that should've never been in my head at all

(Chorus)

When it's not everyday that I don't think of everything
As should've been when it never was
And I fall apart again just because

When it's not everyday that I don't curse the ground I used to bow down on You're finally gone, and it's not with me everyday

Why did you have to try so hard to fool me and yourself
When all along you knew that you were still in love with someone else
I'm left with anger and annoyance, a mental strain from what is not
Is enlarged by the reminder of how quickly you forgot

(Chorus)

(Bridge)

Fading picture that leave ugly stains
Like a bad dream that won't go away
Little things that I just can't let go
Oh, I wish you'd just left me alone

(Tag chorus)

When it's not everyday that I don't hink of everything
As should've been when it never was
And I fall apart again just because

(Chorus)
