Who who'd want to find love
Its not as if we know what to look for looking out but not sure
Who who'd want to find love
Maybe cause its not come around yet still I really don't care
Who who'd want to find love
Don't worry cause your drink isn't drunk so better let the rest go

Shes a lover with a chemical heart
Only ever talks about the obvious part
The place was empty now its body heat heart
Only hear a few words telling me what it felt like
In the morning shes as good as unaffected
But her face moves less than it ought to
And everyones just gone quiet

Only in it for the post card picture
Only in it for the smoke of the gun

Who who'd want to find love
Its not as if we know what to look for looking out but not sure
Who who'd want to find love
Maybe cause its not come around yet still I really don't care
Who who'd want to find love
Don't worry cause your drink isn't drunk so better let the rest go

I'm not worried if the look doesn't last
And there's something in the kiss it I don't need to see past
There's a speech bubble on the top of my head
That everyone sees no matter what I just said
I think about it to much
Talk about it to much
Cry about it to much
To much were spinning in circles

Only in it for the post card picture
Only in it for the smoke of the gun

Who who'd want to find love
Its not as if we know what to look for looking out but not sure
Who who'd want to find love
Maybe cause its not come around yet still I really don't care
Who who'd want to find love
Don't worry cause your drink isn't drunk so better let the rest go
So better let the rest go
