In a big city jungle
Of concrete and steel
With no meaning, with no goal
We two exist
But when the night wakes up
A last hope is lit again
And the fire I missed
It starts to burn again

When we will dance in the neon light
On our journey through the night
We will travel in a symphony
Towards the dawn
And we will dance in the neon light
Away from cry, away from laughter
We'll be captured by a melody
In the dusk

When it becomes morning
An ordinary day
You are no longer here
It's only me
But when the night wakes up
A last hope is lit again
And the fire I missed
It starts to burn again

When we will dance in the neon light
On our journey through the night
We will travel in a symphony
Towards the dawn
And we will dance in the neon light
Away from cry, away from laughter
We'll be captured by a melody
In the dusk

When we will dance in the neon light
On our journey through the night
We will travel in a symphony
Towards the dawn
And we will dance in the neon light

Away from cry, away from laughter
We'll be captured by a melody
In the dusk
