I want to be a better man, Lord knows that I'm trying I want to keep the Master's plan but sometimes things get wild
Demons sleep with me in bed, I can feel their fire When darkness gets around my head, sometimes I go blind

But you were in my heart
While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
But you were in my heart
While the maids of doom were reaching out and tempting me

The world can give you everything, anything you want Money, fame and all it brings, whatever turns you on But your blood's running through my veins and I am standing tall
But even though you took my place you're somehow bound to fall

But you were in my heart
While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
But you were in my heart
While the maids of doom were reaching out and
tempting me

But you were in my heart
While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
But you were in my heart
While the maids of doom were reaching out and
tempting me

But you were in my heart
While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
tempting me

While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me

tempting me

While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
tempting me

While the evil eye was searching out and staring at me
tempting me
