

Leon Redbone

"Darkest Before Dawn"

Visit "Darkest Before Dawn" on MotoLyrics.com

If I was living to be free, I don't see that anymore
I was just trying to be me, but the walls and the wars won't let me be There's always something, to remind me what to do There's always some way, to get back to you Just let me know, when you need my faith
I'll be there to fly away with you, with you

I know someday we'll make it work, and I know that the rain will clear the way I know someday we'll take it home, and I know that the pain will clear the way
There's always something, to remind me of you There's always a way to take me there Just let me know, when you need a hand
I'll be there to be with you, with you

And it's always darkest, before dawn
And when the sun comes out, all the rain is gone, it's gone

I was making my head up, and you know it would fall down
All the weight of the world has got me on the ground

'Cause it's always darkest, before dawn
And when the sun comes on, all the rain is gone, it's gone

Visit Leon Redbone page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.