Back and forth like a swing set,
Round and round like a carousel,

Tears fall down the from the things you say,
Up and down like a see-saw,
You hang on my heart like a monkey bar,
I go right, you go left,
Playtime is over can you hear the bell?

I guess that's what happens,
When you take love for granted.
When you turn around, I'm no where to be found,
And the walls come down crashing.

Cos I'm not gonna wait, til the sun goes down.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.
Gotta get away, I will stay around.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.

Like a playground, using my heart like a playground.
Playing with my heart like a playground,
Using my heart like a playground.

I built a bridge, you sat away,
This time, it's not a game.
I knock, but the door's locked,
A house can't stand on a sandbox.

But I guess that's what happens,
When you take love for granted.
When you turn around, I'm no where to be found,
And the walls come down crashing.

Cos I'm not gonna wait, til the sun goes down.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.
Gotta get away, I will stay around.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.

Like a playground, using my heart like a playground.
Playing with my heart like a playground,
Using my heart like a playground.

I'm not gonna wait, til the sun goes down.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.
Gotta get away, I will stay around.
But you used my heart, like it's your playground.

Like a playground, using my heart like a playground.
Playing with my heart like a playground,
Using my heart like a playground.

Like a playground, using my heart like a playground.
Playing with my heart like a playground,
Using my heart like a playground
