I have a weak strong heart
Suffers every time we are apart
In my small room
Carries the dark and the gloom
Of every long day
In my window the trees they sway

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you, grieve you
And the dark nights proceed through

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you, grieve you
And the dark nights proceed through

He has a mean, mean way
Don't listen to his heart what to say
Goes to the river, crosses the bridge
Leaves his possessions if they don't come with

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you, grieve you
And the dark nights proceed through

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Plead you, bleed you
And the dark nights proceed through

So ho-hollow, so hollow without you
I have a girl's, girl's play
When I say go I mean her to stay
You should know this by now
How many women does it take
To show you how?

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you, grieve you

And the dark nights proceed through

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you, grieve you
And the dark nights proceed through

And it's so hard to find you
In this cold world designed to
Bleed you and grieve you
And the dark nights proceed through
