(Frank & Louis) Are you still here? What are you waiting for?

Your lives to change? An oracle to speak?

Some version of the wounded matador

Who turns toward the bull his other cheek

And entertains you with a torn physique?

Some prisoner in pyjamas dancing lewd

Trablinka waltzes, while another freak

Hangs himself to concentrate your mood

And sweeten up your putrid solitude?

(Michael) My drummer is the only one I trust

Let the drums go rolling through the night

And let them pulverise my deep disgust

With steady thunder, whips and dynamite

The man of sticks and skins is always right.

I found him near the crematorium

Humiliated, begging for a fight.

I wrote the name of honour on a drum

O drummer tell the people why I've come!

O listen to him and his saxophone

(Frank & Louis) Our musical genital unicorn

(Michael) He's very well hung with his golden horn

He'd like to be standing out here alone

The light on his hands, his mouth, and his bone.

(Frank & Louis) So take your solo now and loose your way

In every fingered hole and brassy groan...

You'll soon begin to choke on what you play

(Michael) You're choking now exactly as I say!

(Michael, Frank As for the deeper spirits in the hall

& Louis) Anointed ones and truly different

Whom orgy doesn't satisfy at all

Who loathe the horizontal argument

(Frank & Louis) It is to such as you that he was sent.

(Michael) I understand the loyalties that insist
You burn a child or shoot a president
Or tattoo numbers on a woman's wrist
I know the sorrow of the good idealist.

It is to such as you that I was sent
To speak directly to your deepest shame
And light the fires of experiment
And burn all hesitation in the flame --
I claim you now, I claim you in the name
Of that which you have never done before
And having done it never be the same.
The victim shall be smitten on his sore.
The haughty one shall have a visitor.

(Michael, Frank We heard that drummer, do not think we missed
& Louis) Your subtle derivation from the beat

(Michael) Which I established with an iron fist
A thousand years ago, a small deceit
To be enlarged until you have complete
Control of the mood and the atmosphere --
Your crooked time endangering my defeat --
Now all your instruments must disappear
And on your traitor's face pursue your dark career!
