I went outside to take a walk
So I could re-live memories
I thought that you would lend a hand
But you were never ever there
It's all in your mind
You do what you want to do
Your promises are all played out
You've got your wish you've worn me down
I've treated you the best I could
I realize that I don't need you
I lost my way when you left home
I thought that you could change your life
What did I do? Why do you lie?
You've walked back in my hands and died
It's all in your mind
You do what you want to do
Your promises are all played out
You've got your wish you've worn me down
I've treated you the best I could
I realize that I don't need you
It's all in your mind
You do what you want to do
I'm tired, I'm so damn angry with you
You're not gunna change
I see who you really are
Your promises are all played out
You've got to wish you've worn me down
I've treated you the best I could
I realize that I don't need you
Your promises Your promises Your promises
They're all played out
You're so played out
You're so played out
You're so played out
They're all played out
