Florence:

Well, we can't complain that
You've been ignored by the press.

Freddie:

What they say? what they say?

Florence:

They're not too polite.

Freddie:

They say I'm a shit?

Florence: [Spoken]

Well, yes. They pulled you to pieces--

[Sung]

In five different languages.

The Times:

"You thrives on unpleasantness."

[Spoken]

Le Monde:

"Frederick Trumper..."

[Speaks French]

Freddie:

I don't believe that they can't see my game.

I'm like that tennis player

What's-his-name.

They love to hate me

And for us that's dollars!

Florence:

[Speaks German]

Freddie:

Hey, look, here's a piece

That some idiot's written on you.

[Spoken]

"Florence Vassy, petite Hungarian-born

Personal assistant.

[Sung]

His gentle companion--"
If they only knew!

Florence: [Spoken]
What do you mean?
I've always been gentle with you, Freddie.

Both:
"She stands by her champion--

Freddie: [Spoken]
Oh, I like this.

Both:
Whose demands
Are so infantile."

Freddie: [Spoken]
I don't like this.

Florence:
If you don't like it,
Then it's up to you.
They like the Russian,
They could like you too.

Freddie:
Commie newspapers.
Of course the bastards
All support the Russian.

Florence:
But Sergievsky seems
Such a sweet opponent.
So why do you abuse him all the time?
[Spoken]
Freddie, I love you very much, but just for once
don't go on about the Russians at the press conference, okay?
