I don't wanna tell you that I long to see your face I'm scared it might scare you away and I don't wanna tell you that sometimes I think of you and smile
'cause time with you is time enough for now

But I don't know how long I can stick around and be just another friend time and time again and hold my tongue.
I don't know how long before it breaks me down inside and all my strength has gone away, and it's too late before I say that

I'm falling for you
Falling for you

I'm trying hard to be myself but I always seem to fail I'm afraid I'm not the guy you know so well
'cause every time I'm near you I just seem to lose my head and spend my time admiring instead

But I don't know how long I can stick around and be
just another friend time and time again and hold my tongue.
See I don't know how long before it breaks me down inside and all my strength has gone away, and it's too late before I say that

I'm falling for you
Falling for you

I'm torn between the chance for everything
And a price that I can't pay But losing you is something that I'd never choose So I'll just have to wait
But it kills me everyday

Falling for you
Falling for you
I'm falling for you
Falling for you

I don't wanna tell you sometimes I think of you and smile.
