Well the scene here he wants her back he's trying to use the phone she's hanging up he's given up he should've known looking lost then he wanders off and tries to sing along to some song he's never heard I know I'll get through this somehow but just keeps mouthing all the words It gets worse before it's all over and nothing's gonna change her mind for now Well the scene here he's still alone another band goes on in this crowded basement feeling useless out of excuses she said "it's done" with too much small talk and lame inside jokes he should've known to let it go and all that she left for me was only a memory second chances seem to never come After all the bad endings and misunderstandings and all of the late night last hopes and lost time all I can say is she don't understand me
