There's been borders and there'll be boundaries There's been clear heads and there'll be clean slates and there's been times misdirection's found me Everyone here hates everyone here and times we'd find we'd pass the night away thinking for doing the same thing that they do There's been new starts and they'll be no sleep and there's been times when inspiration's found me and there's been walls built and there's been worse days all those people they keep watching me all those people they watch me and times we'd find we spent the night awake thinking all those people that hate me all those people are just like me
