What you don't know and what I do know is how I think about you everyday I'm drawn to you. I can't keep myself from doing anything less or anything more And what you do know and what I can't say are all the things I've been hiding Day after day desperately holding the truth like a dead boy

Baby what I want to say to you is how you've always been there
Nothing really matters 'cause we know the truth, I'll never rest until we're together I've been down so many times before but you never ever gave up

Now that I'm confessing to you, I wish it was you I was talking to
When I have you right where I want you, I've thought about this everyday I'm meant for you. I can't keep myself pursuing anyone else or anything new Now that I have you right where I need you it's even harder to explain these feelings Night after night desperately holding the truth like a dead boy

Baby what I want to say to you is how you've always
been there
Nothing really matters 'cause we know the truth, I'll
never rest until we're together
I've been down so many times before but you never
ever gave up
Now that I'm confessing to you, I wish it was you I was talking to

Even though we speak in different languages; you speak real and I speak scared We're both saying the same things; we're saying the same things
Even though we speak in different languages; you
speak real and I speak scared

We're both saying the same things; we're feeling the same things
