You see the mist above the water
Blinding all that's there to see
You fell in love with nature's daughter
Or the idea you see

So many moments were made there
The chance to stay, perhaps to flee
But when you've taken what you wanted
There's nothing left to see

She said she'd wait for you as you close her eyes
All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run
All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run, oh, run, child, run

And who alone knows what they're doing
In a place that seems surreal
Any fool can plan his ruin
In a world that's down at heel

So watch the mist clears from the water
Will it give you second sight?
Can you remember what you're here for?
Will you take it as your right?

She said she'd wait for you as you close her eyes
All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run
All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run

All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run
All the things we've said and done
They're are not enough so run, child, run
