Soon this space will be too small
And Iâ€™ll go outside
To the huge hillside
Where the wild winds blow
And the cold stars shine
Iâ€™ll put my foot
On the living road
And be carried from here
To the heart of the world

Iâ€™ll be strong as a ship
And wise as a whale
And Iâ€™ll say the three words
That will save us all
And Iâ€™ll say the three words
That will save us all

Soon this space will be too small
And Iâ€™ll laugh so hard

That the walls cave in

Then Iâ€™ll die three times
And be born again
In a little box
With a golden key
And a flying fish
Will set me free

Soon this space will be too small
All my veins and bones
Will be burned to dust
You can throw me into
A black iron pot
And my dust will tell
What my flesh would not

Soon this space will be too small
And Iâ€™ll go outside
And Iâ€™ll go outside
And Iâ€™ll go outside
