If I could slow the rain, be left alone in an empty room
To think on all I've known.
Instead you stole the rain from me, to contemplate your own.

Circling his everything it's not enough to show.
I'll never let you runaway; I'll never let you runaway,
From my regrets, they've taken everything.

Do I control the current?
Am I destined to end up beneath the waters?
Beneath the waves?
Relay my message, across the sea.

If I could slow the rain, be left alone in an empty room,
To think on all I've known.
I'll slow down the airwaves.
I'll slow down and let go of her name.

[Chorus]
