"I Regret"

I know my days are numbered
I've been in and out of this phase
But these days keep passing me by Good never comes my way

I try to sit back and relax
I try and think of something good
Something else and something pure
I can't but I know I should

Things I should have said
Things that I regret and I regret
Things I should have said
Things that I regret and I regret

No more waiting for something better to come along
It's much easier to change me than it is to change them all
Things I should have said and things that I regret
I need to shed all my skin and start again

Things I should have said
Things that I regret and I regret
Things I should have said
Things that I regret and I regret

Every turn I make is wrong
And I haven't smiled in so long
Shed my skin and start again
Shed my skin and start again
Shed my skin and start again
Shed my skin and start again
Shed my skin and start again

The memories that I once had
Of all the good, good, good
Good times we all used to have
I said, "Shed my skin and start again", yeah
Shed my skin and start again
Shed my skin and start again

Should have said

The things I should have said
The things I should have said
The things I should have said
