fading like a wilted flower even in our finest hour all the dreams you realize are sleeping here with me tonight words are falling off the pages letters kept locked like birds in cages feeling like I've lost my mind here forever missing you in dreams of lavish gifts we hide but if you'd wake up near me here you'll find that

I would be the water
of waves in oceans crashing on the shores of your body I am forever sinking in your sand don't have to look much farther standing strong for you I'd steal all the salt from the raging sea to bring back loves divinity today pieces fall along the way scattered thoughts of yesterday if I could find a way to put this back together again a dream you keep inside your mind and if you wake up near me you will find

standing strong for you

look what you've got

cause you're not getting any younger than today

this could be our finest hour
all the dreams you realize

standing strong for you

look what you've got
