tainted
has our love gone cold in a place that's bitter and broken we tasted of a world unknown surely there must be something better something forever

hello
from the world below I'm watching the sun burning as the road is slowly turning
well I know
that in letting go I'm learning how to live through a life I have to give

walking past the city lights silence can be so disturbing you'll find me standing in the night the stars never seem so unending so unending

hello
from the world below
while I'm watching the sun burning
as the road is slowly turning
that in letting go
I'm learning how to live

but we painted
_ everything
without there remains our shadows and the stones
tell me
where did we go wrong
can we just move on

hello

when I know
that in letting go

hello
to the world below
while I'm watching the world spinning this night seems so unending well I'll follow to a place I know that's only the beginning start over after ending
